Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

1. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The limitation in claim 7 that the polyacetal resin (A) is the only thermoplastic resin present in the composition is new matter. Applicants refer to their working examples as showing no added thermoplastic resin as support for this. This is not sufficient.

On one hand, note that the mere absence of a positive recitation is not basis for an exclusion. See MPEP 2173.05(i). On the other hand page 11 of the specification actually allows for the addition of other thermoplastic resins. See the last full paragraph.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

3. Claims 1 to 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kashiwara in view of Anada.

This rejection relies on the rationale of record, as noted in the previous office action. As such this will not be repeated.

In an effort to overcome this rejection applicants have inserted the language "consisting essentially of" into claim 1. This fails to overcome the prior art. To clarify, the Examiner notes that this language allows for the presence of components that do not materially affect the basic and novel characteristics of the claimed composition. This is different than simply having an affect on the composition (as stated by applicants on page 4 of their reply).

Section 2111.03 of the MPEP states that, for the purposes of searching for and applying prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102 and 103, absent a clear indication in the specification or claims of what the basic and novel characteristics actually are, "consisting essentially of" will be construed as equivalent to "comprising."

In the instant application, both the Technical Field of the Invention and the Disclosure of the Invention indicates that the intent is to achieve excellent mechanical properties. There is nothing to establish that the polyurethane materially affects the basic and novel characteristics of the claimed composition. On one hand, as noted above, the specification indicates that polyurethanes can be added as a polymer binder when glass fibers are used. If polyurethanes can be added to certain types of compositions, there certainly isn't any clear indication that polyurethanes are excluded by this language. On the other hand, page 13 of the specification indicates that additives that improve the mechanical properties can be present in the claimed composition. The polyurethane of Anada serves to improve mechanical strength. This also indicates that polyurethanes are not excluded by this language. To this effect, note that polyurethane impact modifiers are within the breadth of "additives" in claim 8.

While applicants correctly note that Kashiwara fail to disclose the incorporation of a glass filler to improve mechanical strength, Anada specifically teaches that glass fillers are known to improve mechanical strength.

Thus while applicants have attempted to exclude the polyurethane additive in Kashiwara from the claims, they have failed to do so.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

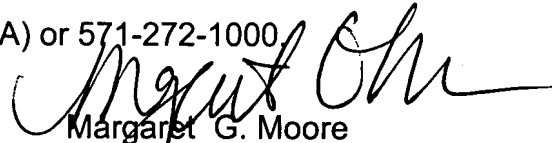

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
